

The Seven Wonders of the Ancient World

A Talk by Major General Stephen Carr-Smith

Since retirement from the British Army, Major General Stephen Carr-Smith has been going around the world as a guest speaker on a variety of cruise ships and gives talks to local organisations.

Two Statues, a Temple, a Garden, two Tombs, and a Lighthouse. This rather odd selection of monuments has become famous as the list of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World.

But how did they get on the famous List? Who chose them? How were they built? And what happened to them over the years? Come on a special journey and find out.
